The rate of tuition is $15 per semester hour ($20 per semester hour in Educ. 47X and in all Fine Arts courses), payable in full at the time of registration. Students who register before Jan. 1, must deposit at least $10, with the balance coming due before classes begin. If the Budget Plan is used, for which an additional fee of $5 is charged, 40% of the total fees must be paid before Jan. 11, 40% of the total on Feb. 17, and the final 20% of the total on March 24. Special finance plans may be arranged through the help of the Business Manager.

Dec. 8 - Holy Day; Also, No Classes

Friday, Dec. 8, is the feast of the Immaculate Conception, a Holy Day of Obligation. This is a free day for St. Joe students. Father Smolar announces there will be no noon Mass that day at Immaculate Conception parish since the Center students will be attending Mass in their own parish churches.

The eve of the Feast day, Dec. 7, is a day of fast and abstinence.

Shavings Cartoonist In Accident

Mike Haviley, cartoonist for SHAVINGS was recently in an auto accident.

Mike was heading south on Indianapolis Blvd., and stopped for a red light adjacent to Kosciusko Park.

After being rammed from the rear by an oncoming auto, Mike's car lurched forward and crashed into the cars in front of him. The force of the collision threw Mike into the back seat of his car. He was taken to St. Catherine's and treated for neck, back and knee injuries.

Christmas Party To Be Held Dec. 16

The social committee of the Student Council has formulated final plans for the Christmas party to be held on Saturday, Dec. 16, at Immaculate Conception parish hall in East Chicago.

Non Yatsko who is in charge of refreshments will be canvassing our halls for volunteers to provide Christmas pastry. She is expecting to receive some good recipes for many traditional goodies.

The program chairman, Mary Lou Skafish, is rounding up plenty of entertainment for that night. Private student acts are being solicited. Records and tapes will be played instead of having a band since the Advent season will be in progress. Each student will be requested to bring a grab-bag gift worth 25 to 50 cents—no more! Gifts from home are acceptable provided they are unusual. If anyone should arrive without a gift, he will be obliged to contribute a quarter towards the expenses. Since a prize will be awarded for the funniest gift, students are requested to place their names on the package they submit.

Reminder Of Exam Schedule

Final Examinations, one hour and 50 minutes in length, will be held in all credit courses. Cutting an announced test or examination incurs a grade of F. This may be removed by the passing of a special test after certifications that the required fee has been paid. No instructor is at liberty to make private arrangements for such special examinations.

All evening classes will meet for their final examinations at 7:30 on the same evenings on which these classes regularly meet.

Daytime classes will meet for final examinations according to the schedule on the first-floor bulletin board. Everyone should be sure to check his schedule for conflicts, immediately. Report all such conflicts to Father Martin.

Arts Club to View Messiah; Attend Party Dec. 17

Jim Repko, publicity chairman for the Fine Arts Club, wants to remind all members of the planned activities for Dec. 17.

At 3:30 p.m. the Glee Club from St. Joe's in Rensselaer will combine with the College Chorus and Orchestra from Alverno College. The combined groups will present Handel's "Messiah." The presentation will take place at Orchestra Hall; all members are urged by Miss Spuehler to attend. Arrangements to see this program can be made by contacting Miss Spuehler as soon as possible.

Following the afternoon presentation, at approximately 7 p.m., there will be a Christmas Party for all members of the Fine Arts Club. The party will be held in the home of the club's co-moderator, Miss Spuehler, at 10600 South Campbell, just two blocks west of Western Avenue.

Choral Group To Appear On WGRY, Dec. 23

Saturday, Dec. 23, is the date set for the radio performance of the Christmas program to be presented by the Calumet Center Choral Group. The performance will be broadcast over Gary radio station WGRY at 3 p.m. Miss Scozzaro, who is sponsoring the Choral Group, explained they have put many arduous hours of practice into this proposed presentation. She continued by saying the program will include renditions of many favorite yuletide carols and hymns.

Ted Mason, a St. Joe senior, will be the Master of Ceremonies for the afternoon program. In addition to his role as M.C., Ted will sing several solo hymns.

The group from the Center will contribute to the Christmas spirit throughout the area, not only by their radio broadcast, but also by several guest appearances. The East Chicago division of the Hoosier State Bank will be visited by the vocalists on Wednesday, Dec. 20, at noon. The two area hospitals, St. Margaret's and St. Catherine's, will also be points of entertainment for our group. St. Ann's Home, in Hammond, will be the final trip for the carolers. The time arrangements for the last events have yet to be made.

Letter to Editor

Dear Mister Editor:

This letter is in reply to your rattling editorial of November 27, 1961, in which you editorialized the demise of school spirit and lack of Student Council leadership.

We have neither the time nor the desire to dignify your inaccurate remarks and half-truths by entering into an impassioned, long-winded polemics with you or anyone else who has nothing more to do than criticize others. We are, however, compelled by reason of being officers of the Student Council to defend our actions. Accordingly we have decided to take your editorial to task. We fondly hope that as a result of this you will see the wisdom of reporting unvarnished, indisputable, well-established facts, rather than subjective half-truths and inaccuracies.

In the first paragraph regarding the attendance at the tug of war, where were you, Mister Editor? While we are on the subject of attendance, have you attended all social events? We are sure that you will agree with us when we say, that in pursuing a college degree it sometimes is impossible to attend all social events.

Your second paragraph states, "There was a list that totalled over 200 fellas." RIDICULOUS! This has to be a typographical error. The list we saw contained at most the names of 23 men and 14 women. At least five of the names had been deleted ahead of time.

The same paragraph also stated: "This is not the first time that students have gone back on their word." Granted! If we proceed according to human nature it certainly won't be the last time.

The next topic was the victory dance. It stated: "Only one student appeared. He was there in order to take pictures for our newspaper." This is to say that the other 662 were not present. We are all, therefore, to blame—yourself included. How does it go? "Practice what you preach!"

As we go on, you brought out the fact that the Student Council knew about the tug of war on November 3rd. This statement was followed by the question, "Why wasn't this event publicized properly?" The only part of publication that was lacking was the part played, or shall we say not played by SHAVINGS. Minutes were taken at the Calumet Collegiate Conference meeting at which we planned the event. That very day those minutes were embodied in an article which was handed SHAVINGS. Later we were informed that the paper, for some unknown reason, would not go to press. This article was then posted on the main bulletin board. When the article finally appeared the event was a thing of the past.

Now let us look at the Student Council's part in the publicity. You said that you saw only two posters. You must have stopped looking after

Sophs Hold Last Meeting This Semester

Recently the sophomore class officers held a meeting. The main purpose of this meeting was to give a financial report of this year's class projects, and to discuss plans for future events in which all students could participate. At a previous meeting, the officers agreed not to limit projects just to the sophomore class. The reason is that the size of the class would make a large project impractical without the participation of the whole student body.

Chris Chandler, treasurer of the class, announced that the ventures of the sophs netted well over one hundred dollars for their treasury.

Joseph Modjeski, president of the class, disclosed that ideas for future events include a tobogganing party, a skating party at the Dorchester Club, or some type of field day in the early spring. Joe later explained that the field day would be an activity that the Athletic Association should sponsor, instead of the class. Modjeski is president of the A.A., also.

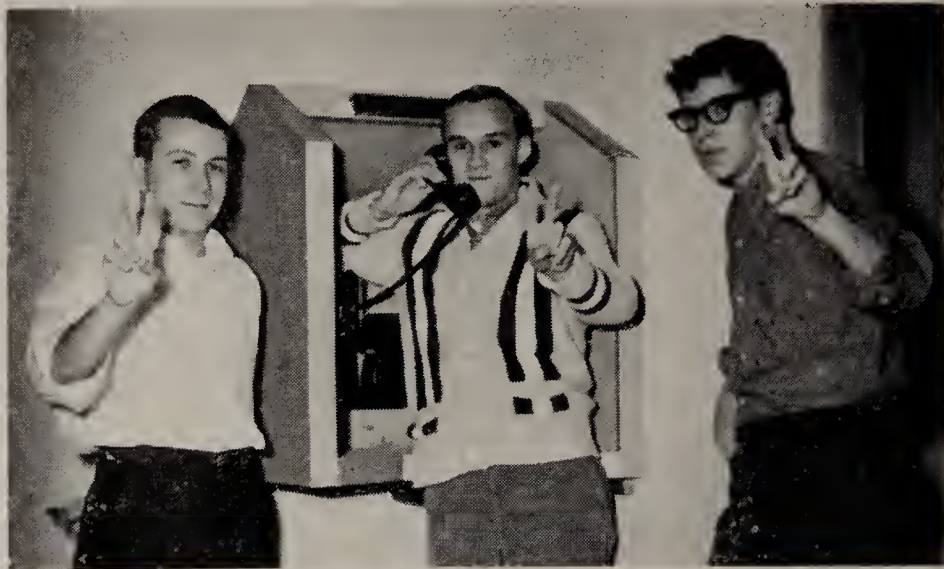

The idea for an open meeting for the members of the class who wish to attend was suggested by Liz Szelestey, secretary for the sophs. The officers agreed this should not take place before the beginning of the winter semester, because of the small amount of time left in the present term. More can be accomplished by postponing the open meeting.

The last point brought up was the successful way in which the frosh officers delegated sub-committees to carry out different jobs. All officers agreed wholeheartedly that this idea is one well worth trying, and may possibly be used during the next soph project.

you saw these two. Nine in fact were displayed. The seven that you missed were placed in the downstairs lounge, the upstairs lounge, the door of the men's room, the main bulletin board, the rear bulletin board, and two on the front door, one for those entering the building, another for those leaving. Don't you think that nine posters in a building the size of the Calumet Center are sufficient? We are not making excuses for the Council because we feel that there is no need for them.

We, too, are in favor of more open meetings. We are in favor however, of having more students attend than were present at the last open meeting. In anticipation of many helpful ideas we shall have your open meeting as requested.

Students Place Call To Kremlin

Three sophomores, Pat O'Rourke, Joe Modjeski and Richard Marce, have been trying to reach the Russian Premier, Nikita Khrushchev.

Within the past few days, the fellows have called three times. Each time, some problem arose that made it impossible to reach Mr. K.

The first attempt was made Oct. 29. The overseas operator connected the trio with the Paris operator. Due to a technical difficulty, the call could go no further.

The second attempt was made later. Once again the call went through to Paris. The Paris operator was more successful this time. She reached the Kremlin and a high state official. The fellows could hear the Russian official, but he could not hear the students, so the second attempt failed.

The last attempt almost made it. The call went through to the Kremlin, but the students could not miss their classes, so they were forced to give up the call. Mr. Khrushchev was being located at the time the trio hung up.

Before each call the telephone company sent a telegram notifying the Premier of the students' intentions to call. The company was very cooperative, explained the sophomores.

When queried, the trio said their main purpose in calling is to question Nikita concerning the recent series of bomb tests. They are sure the questions will be answered. They also look forward to the memorable experience of conversing with Khrushchev.

Even though they have been unsuccessful so far, 'oo much has been invested to completely give up the idea, explained Marce. He said that the calls will continue until Mr. K. can be reached.

Contributions Distributed To Needy Families

Vince Chiaro, president of the junior class, expressed his disappointment that there was not a better response on the part of the students towards the junior class Food and Clothing Drive.

"Could it be that the people in America are too well off, and do not know what it is to want and need food and clothing?" Vince asked. "However," he continued, "I want to thank those who did contribute. Those who did were very generous."

The combined food and clothing drive was held from Nov. 15 to 22. The food will be sent via CARE to needy families in foreign lands; the clothing was given to the Bishops Relief Drive, an annual collection of usable clothing which is distributed to the needy throughout the world.

Ad Campaign Proving Successful

After the first week of selling advertisements for SHAVINGS, Mr. Swanke reports that the salesmen are doing very well. As of this date only two fellows have made sales but they total over $300. These two are Jim Repko and Tom Henderlong.

The ads will start appearing in the Christmas edition of SHAVINGS and will continue through the second semester. The ads, which are being solicited from neighborhood businessmen, will provide for a more colorful paper. Until this time SHAVINGS has relied on allocation from the Student Council treasury but will now be in a better position to become self-supporting.

There are still several openings for salesmen, so if anyone is interested, contact Mr. Swanke in Room 106 as soon as possible. The most attractive aspect of selling is that commissions are being given to persons who sell the ads.

Meet Our Student Teacher

A few weeks ago Mildred Stephens completed her student teaching requirement.

Franklin Elementary School, East Chicago, was the site of training for Mildred. During her stay there she taught twenty-six second graders from 8 to noon. All her work was done under the watchful eyes of Mrs. Umbarger, her critic teacher. As Mildred put it, "Mrs. Umbarger was an excellent critic teacher; I learned a number of techniques from her which should help greatly in my own teaching career."

Mildred began preparing for her career when she entered Olorona College High School in Mississippi. However, after her graduation she entered the business world, married, and settled down to raising a family. She has two children, Larry 13, and Ralph 11.

After moving to East Chicago, Mildred decided to go back to school and work toward a degree in education.

After completing two years at the Indiana University Extension, and one semester at Roosevelt, Chicago, Mildred decided to transfer to St. Joseph's Center to complete her education. Now that her schooling is nearly completed, Mildred is both happy and sad. Sad because she will be leaving all the wonderful friends she has made while attending school, yet happy for after much hard work she is within sight of her goal, that of being a teacher. When asked what she considered a good teacher Mildred replied, "In my eyes a good teacher should at all times be firm but gentle, and always put the children's welfare first."

One last question was asked of Mildred, "What are your future plans?" To this she answered, "If I could have my choice I would like to go back to Franklin Elementary School again on a full-time basis; however, at the present time there are no vacancies. One thing is certain though, and that is I want to teach here in the East Chicago school system."

STRIKES & SPARES

The Alley Angels increased their record winning streak to thirteen wins as they move closer to the top spot. Unfortunately the three wins they took this past week resulted from forfeiture on the part of the Pin Tumblers who have now tumbled into last place to tie with the Gutter Dusters. But one has to say this much for the Alley Angels and that is they are really beginning to cremate those pins. In other action the Alley Wreckers and Ten Pins met in a crucial series. The Pins took two of the three games for the leaders which dropped the Wreckers into a tie for the lead with the Maple Maulers. The Maulers missed a golden opportunity to move into the top spot—not enough of their members showed (and the same for its opposition the Gutter Dusters) and they had to forfeit one and one-half games as did the Gutter Dusters. As the standings hold now there is only a one and one-half game spread between the first four teams with two weeks of bowling competition left this semester.

High scoring honors for the men went to Tom Cardis for high game, 225, and to Wally Keilman for high series, 530. Wally was second with a high game of 191 and Tom Cardis took second with a 511 series.

High game and high series scoring honors for the girls went to Charlotte Hatezel with a 167 and 424 respectively. Incidentally, Charlotte tied the record for high game which is held by Evelyn Zsoldos. Mary Strycula took second to Charlotte in both departments with a high game of 124 and a series total of 316.

Future Teachers Two Surveys Elect Officers Near Completion

The Future Teachers Club of St. Joseph's College C.C. met on Monday, Nov. 20, in order to elect new officers and to benefit from the valuable experience of student teacher Tom Emro. Tom began the evening with a discussion of air-borne television in education. The student teacher admitted his initial skepticism towards the "machine," but said that he soon became convinced of its usefulness and desirability. Besides describing the purposes and advantages of air-borne television, Tom gave the members a few helpful hints for their student teaching.

Following Mr. Emro's discussion, the president, Ruth Szot, conducted the elections for officers. Idajean Windell was elected next year's president. Eleanor Carnowski, Beth Groff, and Maria Pavlovich are the new vice-president, secretary and treasurer, respectively. Volunteer members for the membership committee were Nan Hedinger, chairman, Bessie Westmoreland and Mary J. Tsangaris. Sandy Saleczynski and Ruth Szot are chairman and co-chairman of the publicity and social committee.

A social gathering with cookies and coffee followed.

Mr. Melevage, moderator of the club, has stated his plans for holding the meetings on the first Monday of every month starting next semester. He explained that since there will be no classes from 5 to 7 p.m. on Mondays during the winter semester, members can plan on this specific time every month for their meetings.

The survey conducted by SHAVINGS at the request of Father Henry J. Martin, C.P.P.S., Director and Dean of the Calumet Center, is near completion.

All completed questionnaires have been turned in the past week, and are now being compiled. Mr. Swanke, co-advisor for SHAVINGS thanks all those who cooperated in answering the questionnaires. "Although not everyone cooperated 100%, the results of the survey will be as close to accurate as possible," Mr. Swanke explained.

Kathie Mullaney and Dianne Miller, two staff members of SHAVINGS, have been doing the tabulating and coding of the questionnaires.

The second survey under completion is the one conducted by the sociology students under the direction of Mr. Lazur, Assistant Professor of Sociology.

The students canvassed the East Chicago area, trying to determine the consciousness of residents towards ethnic groups living in the area.

All students are working together tabulating and coding the questionnaires.

Mr. Lazur stated that the results would be given to SHAVINGS as soon as they are obtained.

Know More With Seymour

Hi, Troops!

We can chalk up another week in our lives as 'Gone Forever!' Have you ever wished that you could re-do something from your past? Maybe using a different or better technique in the way you performed previously? Remember though, you can never undo or re-live anything from the past; so think before you speak and act! You won't regret this. I suppose you all are prepared for the good 'ole finals—and why not? From what I have seen lately, everybody is keeping himself busy by studying "more and enjoying it less!" You won't get it by osmosis, friends. Now for the brighter side of this drab, crazy, mad world here at St. Joe's.

A new club may be formed in the near future. It might be called The Leotard Gals Club, with Ruth Kasper as president, Jocelyn Kissela as V.P., Mary Marquis, secretary, and Mary Lou Kandalec, treasurer. Nonnie Yatsko will recruit new members. Good luck, gals!

Did you do your part to make the Bishops Relief Drive a success?

The freshman class should be commended on the fine way they handled their bake sale. I heard it was a big success. Keep up the good work, kids!

Could it be that Ted Mason is the fellow we hear singing on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons in the music room? I didn't know you had it in you, Ted; you sound pretty good.

Note—All girls who need a morale booster! Bernie Evano says that "heels will do it every time." The added height will boost it at least a few inches, if not more!

Many new volumes have been recently added to our library. Why not take time out and browse around?

To Whom It May Concern: Any girl desiring a new St. Joe's class ring nail down a fellow who just bought his! I just know I'm a big help!

I don't believe that you sociology students didn't have your surveys completed by the deadline. What happened, fellahs?!

Continue to remember in your prayers the mothers of Fathers Martin and Otte. I know they appreciate your efforts and thoughtfulness.

A sincere "thank you" to the Feddelers for the use of their property for the hayride. A fabulous time was had by all.

Jim Repko is considering going into "grandfather clock" manufacturing. What do you think of that!

Well gang, I'll have to close for this week. Study hard for those nice finals and remember that I'll be watching you.

Think: Anything worth while is worth working and waiting for.

'Ole faithful,
Seymour

Dr. Dean Conducts Poll to Determine Best Actor, Actress

Dr. Dean, who was in charge of the recent One Act Play Festival has been conducting a poll to determine who the students feel were the outstanding performers in the plays, and which of the three plays was best.

"The Bald Soprano," has taken all honors. Experienced performers Margaret Frechette and Richard Kelly were chosen as outstanding actress and actor. Both have had previous experience in plays. They portrayed Mr. and Mrs. Smith. "The Bald Soprano" also received the highest number of votes for the best play. It was directed by Margaret Frechette.

Mr. Brinley was rated the best faculty actor. Mr. Brinley portrayed John in "If Men Played Cards As Women Do."

Seniors Undertake First Class Project

Walter Schultz, president of the senior class, has announced the first class project of the year. The seniors will take care of all Christmas decorations in and around school. The class will furnish the decorations and a tree, and will have a "tree trimming" party.

Besides decorating, the seniors will assist Father Smolar in the Advent Wreath Ceremonies. Wally explained he is in the process of appointing students to conduct the services with Father.

President Schultz continued by explaining why his class hasn't undertaken any activities so far this year. The number of seniors in the class prevents them from sponsoring class projects, he said.

The Advent wreath will be placed in a convenient location within the building, so all can see it. The wreath will be set up during the first week in December.

Letter to Editor

In your recent article concerning the One Act Play Festival you neglected to give credit to the one person who worked hardest to make this endeavor a success. Father Smolar obtained the auditorium, had posters and tickets printed, procured trucks to haul scenery and stage properties, and worked side by side with us on every aspect of our production. He deserves a great deal of credit for without him there would not have been a Festival.

Yours truly,
Jocelyn Kissela
Pres., Fine Arts Club

Cheerleaders Speak Out

Calumet Center cheerleaders, Bunny Kochis, Dianne Miller, Hele Isenburg (now substitute), Mary Lou Skafish (new regular) and Arlen Rueth, were recently interviewed on the reactions to their cheerleading experience. Their responses to the following queries revealed the difficulty as well as the glamorous aspect of their job. The questions were: How do you think you'll like cheering for the basketball season? Do you enjoy cheerleading? What do you like about it best? Least? What, in your opinion, make your duty most enjoyable? Most difficult?

Bunny Kochis: "Actually, I like cheering for basketball games better than for football games because everyone is together in one building and things are more organized. I love to cheer, especially when the crowd is enthusiastic. An uncooperative group can make cheering most difficult. The thing I like best about cheering is the opportunity for meeting people. The only thing that makes it really difficult is the time it consumes."

Dianne Miller: "Personally, I'd rather cheer for football — it's more exciting. One advantage of basketball is that it's inside and you're not exposed to the weather. I enjoy cheerleading very much, particularly when the crowd is enthusiastic. It also keeps you in good physical condition. The only difficult part is the initial aches and pains. I like cheering best of all when the game is exciting, and the crowd responds accordingly. The part I like the least is the fickleness of the crowd: When the team is winning, they're with us; as soon as the team begins to fall behind, the cheerleaders are abandoned. Except for a few loyal rooters, it's impossible to keep the crowd enthusiastic. Bad weather and the difficulty of keeping the fans' cheers together are also detriments."

Hele Isenburg: "I enjoy cheering preferably because the people are together. During the football season there was little cooperation. I love the actual cheerleading; it's a great thrill. The difficulty during any season, however, is getting the people on dates to cheer. They are usually the most uncooperative. Another thing that I don't like are the insulting remarks the leaders sometimes get from the crowd. This doesn't happen too often, but it does put a damper on things. I find that cheerleading is most enjoyable when I can actually FEEL the enthusiasm and school spirit of the students. This is very rewarding. The most difficult obstacle to overcome is the attitude on the South campus. I really don't feel that the Rensselaer students want us. They ask us to give our all, and when we do, they still aren't satisfied. In fact we even tried to initiate some new cheers, but they want no part of them. I feel they would be more happy if we stayed home and they could use their male cheerleaders."

Mary Lou Skafish: "I like to cheer for the basketball crowd better than for the football group because it is easier to get the attention of the former. I really do enjoy cheerleading especially when I get to meet many different people. When you don't get the cooperation of the crowd the job is most difficult, but I enjoy spurring them on to a frenzy of school spirit. The thing that comes hardest to me is trying to regain this enthusiasm after the team starts losing."

Ardene Rueth: "I'd rather cheer for basketball because we're in a building and more united. Outside it's hard to keep the cheers in unison. Of course I enjoy cheerleading; it stimulates a special kind of school spirit, especially if the crowd is with the leader. It's really an experience—a challenge. I also have had many occasions to meet some fine people. The thing I like least is the uncertainty of whether or not we will be cheering for a game away from home. We usually find out at the last minute. The enthusiasm of the group and the feeling that we're helping the team to win makes my cheerleading enjoyable. The most difficult aspect of cheerleading is trying to unite the ideas of the campus group with those of the Calumet Center."
